persian Gulf and changing of it's name's intentions by National Geographic magazine

by Dr. Behrouz Ajdari, Lecturer of Imam Ali university

Abstract:

observing geographical location and characteristics This essay examine the informations about "Toponymy" , as the science of placer's names, of persian Gulf .

we have tried to observe documents and records of geographical names of persian Gulf in books, magazines, encyclopedia's and geographical maps.

generally , names of topographic phenomonon , springs from a special conditions or events . one of these phenomonons is persian Gulf that it's name has originated from documents of history , people , governors , geographers , politicians , etc ... and because of its neighbourhood to the OLD PARS territories , this name has remained permanent.

But , recently some countries , including u.s.a and some Arab countries has tried to change the name of persian Gulf into Arab Gulf , concerning their economic and political intentions . this action has been taken place in National Geographic magazine. and Iranians stood against this issue.
